THE SNOW DROPS CALL. Who else is coming? There's nunshine here: Ye would strew the way for the infant year The frest winds blow on the barren hill,

And leicles hang in the quarry still; But sunny, and sheltered, and safe, are we, In the moss at the feet of the sycamore tree-Are ye not coming? The first birds sing: They call to her bowers the lingering spring And, afar to his home near the north pole sinr.

Old Winter is gone in his snow-cloud car; And the storms are past, and the sky is clear, And we are alone, sweet sisters! here, Will ye not follow? Ye safe shall be In the green moss under the sycamore tree; And, oh! there is health in the clear cold breeze. And a sound of joy in the leafless trees; And the sun is pale, yet his pleasant gleam Has waken'd the earth and unchain'd the stream.

And the soft west wind, oh, it gently blows! Hasten to follow, pale lady Primrose! And Hyacinth graceful, and Crocus gay, For we have not met this many a day. Follow us, follow us, follow us then, All ye whose home is in grove or glen. Why do ye linger, who else is coming, Now spring is awaked with the wild bees' humming!

THE COTTAGE DOOR!

How lovely is a cottage door, At sunset's dewey close! How sweet when labor's toils are o'er, The scenes each hamlet shows.

Then manhood's brow throws off its care, Woman puts on her smile, And sportive infancy doth share The joys of home awhile!

Ann happy, smiling faces, meet The rustic porch before; While playmates fond, each other greet Around the cottage door!

Ah! who would leave our happy land, Where peace and plenty dwell, To roam upon a foreign strand, Whose wonders travellers tell?

Grateful we'll praise the mighty hand That shed's such blessings here, Protecting still our native land From ills that others fear.

Still let us love this spot of earth,-The best, where'er we roam,-And duly estimate the worth Of our blest, happy home!

FARM FORSALE.

THE Subscriber being out of health, and being unable to carry on his farm, will sell the whole or part on reasonable terms, said farm consisting of about forty acres of good land, with about fifteen acres under improvement, with a house and barn thereon and well watered. ### THE AMERICAN Anti-Slavery Almanac For 183711

THIS DAY PUBLISHED, the Ameri can Anti-Slavery Almanae for 1837, which contains the usual astronomical calcalations and chronological tables used in Almanaes, which have been prepared with great care. There is also much interesting and useful information on the subject of slavery, which it is believed will do much to throw light upon the question of immediate abolition. Great care has been taken to gather all interesting events and occur-rences, and no labor has been withheld in obtaining valuable articles from distinguished writers. The Almanac is also embelished with several appropriate engravings,

Among the articles are 'Free Discussion, Am. A. S. Society; $100,000 Reward; E-mancipation in the West Indies; Principles of Anti-Slavery Societies; the Slave Father; Produce of Slave Labor; Children's Department; Temptation Resisted; a Mother's Anguish; Slave Population in the Uni-ted States; Emigrants to Liberia; Objec-tions Considered; Onedia Institute; Anti-Slavery Publications.

NNION HOUSE. WM. MANN,

RESPECTFULLY informs his friends and the public that he has erected a large and commodious house of Entertainment upon the spot formerly occupied by the "Union Hotel," on Maine street, and that every thing is now in sections. every thing is now in readiness for the re-ception of the 'weary traveller,' and such others, whether weary or not, as may be pleased to layer him with their company. Every refreshment for man and beast constantly on hand.

Should sny one be disposed to doubt that the 'Union House,' in point of size, neat-ness, convenience and situation, is entitled to a rank among the very first hotels and public houses in Vermont (or N. England) he is only invited to 'CALL AND SEE.'

Mr Mann takes this opportunity to ten-der his acknowledgments to his old patronand friends, for past favors, and to respect-fully solicit a continuance of their patron-

YOUR attention is a moment called to a little Schhool Book entitled the CHILD'S ASSISTANT, to a knowledge of the Geography and his-tory of Vermont, by S. R. Hall. It has already passed through six large editions, and is now offered for sale by the publishers with the belief that it is one of the best ele mentary works ever put into the hands of children. The present system of putting a child to study the Geography of the World, before he can even bound his own town or county is certainly wrong. How many there are who can answer almost any question are yet unable to give the boundaries of the county in which they live, much less of the H. C. McINTYRE. County in which they live, much less of the several counties in the State! and how many have a a compend of General History, while they remain ignorant of the History of their native State! This book is intended to supply this delect in the education of the children of Vermont. A child should first study the Geography and History of his own State and then some elementary Geog-

a larger Geography. RECOMMENDATIONS.

The Journal of Education, one of the most deservedly celebrated literary publicates. E. P. WAI ions, says of this work-"This is one of the most judicious and practical books for a primary school, we have yet seen. The Geo: Wanted in exchange for Goods, Flannel, Woolen Yarn, and Foot-tool for thought, and will aid the early for mation of good mental habits. The civil history is sufficiently copious for the purpos-es of such a volume, and the account of the hardships of the early settlers is highly ined patriotism, and possess a much higher Pans, Pots;

ed patriotism, and possess a much ingue, value than is apparent at first sight."

Zadock Thompson, A. M. says "I am much pleased with the 'Geography and History of Vermont,' by the Rev. S. R. Hall, which you lately put into my hands. It is a cooking Furnaces, &c. &c. introduced into all the primary schools of this State."
